

August Prompt - Kaleidoscope Book Club

Theme: Every Body, Every Story (Disability Rep + LGBTQIA+)

Explore the intersection of disability and LGBTQIA+ identities. Read books featuring disabled LGBTQIA+ main characters or written by disabled authors from the community. Stories should center characters navigating both their disabled and LGBTQIA+ identities. Fiction, nonfiction, or memoir are welcome. Books from any category—adult, young adult, juvenile—are welcome.

Please note all below titles are currently available in print through consortium sharing (see links). Some titles may be available through Libby or Hoopla, but ebooks/audiobook availability is subject to change.

Fiction

ADHD

According to Plan by Christen Randall (Young Adult Contemporary Romance)

When a meticulously organized nonbinary teen's carefully mapped-out future begins to unravel, they discover that life's best moments can't always be scheduled. This heartfelt coming-of-age novel explores friendship, first love, and embracing uncertainty while portraying ADHD as one part of a richly developed identity. (Nonbinary Rep, ADHD Rep) View in the library catalog

Cleat Cute by Meryl Wilsner (Adult Sports Romance)

Two professional soccer stars find themselves competing for the same position—and unexpectedly falling for one another. Filled with humor, chemistry, and emotional depth, the novel features an ADHD protagonist while celebrating queer love on and off the field. (Sapphic Rep, ADHD Rep) View in the library catalog

Don't Forget to Breathe by Brianna Shrum (Young Adult Contemporary)

A queer teenager struggling to balance expectations, relationships, and her own mental well-being learns that asking for help can be an act of courage. Shrum offers an honest portrayal of ADHD alongside a moving story of identity and self-acceptance. (Sapphic Rep, ADHD Rep) View in the library catalog

Extraordinaries by TJ Klune (Young Adult Superhero Fantasy)

Nick Bell is a superhero-obsessed teen convinced he's destined for adventure—even if he doesn't have powers himself. Packed with humor, action, and heartfelt friendships, this series embraces ADHD as part of Nick's energetic personality while delivering a joyful queer coming-of-age story. (Gay Rep, ADHD Rep) View in the library catalog

Glitch Girl! by Rainie Oet (Middle Grade Graphic Novel)

When a young trans girl begins to understand herself and the world around her, she discovers that being different isn't something to fix—it's something to celebrate. This imaginative graphic novel thoughtfully explores ADHD, identity, and belonging through a neurodivergent lens.

(Trans Rep, ADHD Rep; Written by a Neurodivergent Author) View in the library catalog

Lakelore by Anna-Marie McLemore (Young Adult Magical Realism)

Two nonbinary teens form an unexpected connection through a mysterious magical lake that reflects their inner lives. Blending fantasy with contemporary themes, the novel thoughtfully explores ADHD, dyslexia, gender identity, and the pressures of living up to others' expectations.

(Nonbinary Rep, ADHD Rep, Dyslexia Rep; Written by a Neurodivergent Author) View in the library catalog

Late Bloomer by Mazey Eddings (Adult Romantic Comedy)

A woman returns to her family's flower farm after burnout, only to find herself reconnecting with her roots—and unexpectedly falling in love. Eddings blends humor and heartfelt emotion while portraying both ADHD and autism with authenticity in a warm, queer romance. (Sapphic Rep, ADHD Rep, Autism Rep; Written by a Neurodivergent Author) View in the library catalog

The Prospects by K.T. Hoffman (Adult Sports Romance)

The first openly trans baseball player in professional baseball finds his carefully ordered life disrupted when an old friend joins his team. Combining romance, sports, and found family, the novel features thoughtful portrayals of ADHD and anxiety alongside trans joy. (Trans Rep, ADHD Rep, Anxiety Rep) View in the library catalog

Agoraphobia

Forever Is Now by Mariama J. Lockington (Young Adult Contemporary)

After experiencing a traumatic event, Sadie finds her world shrinking as agoraphobia makes leaving home increasingly difficult. Through poetry, friendship, and first love, she begins the slow process of healing while embracing her queer identity. (Queer Rep, Agoraphobia Rep) View in the library catalog

Anxiety

Bellies by Nicola Dinan (Adult Literary Fiction)

When a young couple's relationship changes after one partner comes out as a trans woman, both must navigate identity, love, and personal growth. Dinan's debut thoughtfully explores anxiety alongside transition in a deeply human coming-of-age story for adults. (Trans Rep, Anxiety Rep) View in the library catalog

Everyone in This Room Will Someday Be Dead by Emily R. Austin (Adult Literary Fiction)

An anxious young lesbian accidentally lands a job at a Catholic church and becomes entangled in keeping an increasingly complicated secret. Equal parts dark comedy and heartfelt character study, the novel offers an honest portrayal of anxiety and depression while celebrating queer identity. (Lesbian Rep, Anxiety Rep, Depression Rep) View in the library catalog

Greta & Valdin by Rebecca K. Reilly (Adult Literary Fiction)

Members of a wonderfully messy Māori-Russian family navigate relationships, heartbreak, and adulthood with warmth and humor. Alongside its queer romances, the novel includes nuanced OCD representation and characters managing anxiety while searching for connection. (Gay Rep, Queer Rep, Anxiety Rep, OCD Rep) View in the library catalog

Honey Girl by Morgan Rogers (Adult Contemporary Romance)

After an impulsive wedding in Las Vegas, a burned-out astronomy graduate travels across the country to discover what she truly wants from life and love. Rogers explores anxiety, depression, and the pressure of perfection through a tender story of self-discovery and queer romance. (Sapphic Rep, Anxiety Rep, Depression Rep) View in the library catalog

I'm So (Not) Over You by Kosoko Jackson (Adult Romantic Comedy)

A man agrees to pretend to be his ex-boyfriend's date for a family wedding, only to discover old feelings haven't disappeared. Jackson combines fake dating, humor, and heartfelt romance while portraying anxiety with compassion and realism. (Gay Rep, Anxiety Rep) View in the library catalog

Iris Kelly Doesn't Date by Ashley Herring Blake (Adult Romantic Comedy)

Romance novelist Iris Kelly reluctantly agrees to a fake relationship with a one-night stand, only to discover genuine feelings growing between them. A witty, emotionally satisfying romance featuring an anxious heroine learning to be vulnerable. (Sapphic Rep, Anxiety Rep) View in the library catalog

Take a Hint, Dani Brown by Talia Hibbert (Adult Romantic Comedy)

A viral video convinces the world that two friends are the perfect couple, leading them into a fake relationship that slowly becomes real. This joyful romance features bisexual representation and an honest portrayal of anxiety while celebrating neurodiversity and disability across the series. (Bisexual Rep, Anxiety Rep) View in the library catalog

Arthritis

Climate of Chaos by Cassandra Newbould (Young Adult Dystopian Science Fiction)

In a future transformed by climate disaster, a disabled Black teenager sets out on a dangerous journey to rescue her missing family while navigating a world divided by wealth and survival. Fast-paced and hopeful, the novel centers disability as part of everyday life rather than something to overcome. (Sapphic Rep, Arthritis Rep) View in the library catalog

Asthma

Conventionally Yours by Annabeth Albert (Young Adult Contemporary Romance)

Longtime rivals and competitive tabletop gamers are forced to travel together to a national gaming convention, where rivalry slowly gives way to romance. Blending humor, geek culture, and a memorable road trip, the novel features a protagonist living with asthma. (Gay Rep, Asthma Rep) View in the library catalog

When the Tides Held the Moon by Venessa Vida Kelley (Adult Historical Fantasy Romance)

Set in a lush, magical version of early twentieth-century New York, this atmospheric fantasy follows a Puerto Rican blacksmith whose life changes after he encounters a mysterious merman hidden away for public exhibition. Richly illustrated by the author, the novel weaves together folklore, romance, disability, and found family into a story about freedom, belonging, and choosing your own future. (Gay Rep, Asthma Rep) View in the library catalog

Autism

An Unkindness of Ghosts by Rivers Solomon (Adult Science Fiction)

Aster has spent her life navigating the rigid social hierarchy aboard a generation ship modeled after the antebellum South. As she uncovers long-buried secrets, she becomes a catalyst for change in this powerful novel exploring oppression, identity, and survival. (Intersex Rep, Queer Rep, Autism-Coded Protagonist; Written by a Nonbinary, Autistic Author) View in the library catalog

Deep by Rivers Solomon (Adult Fantasy Novella)

Descendants of pregnant African women thrown overboard during the transatlantic slave trade have built an underwater civilization, with one historian carrying the collective memories of her people. This lyrical novella explores trauma, memory, identity, and community through an unforgettable speculative lens. (Queer Rep, Autism-Coded Protagonist; Written by a Nonbinary, Autistic Author) View in the library catalog

Lakelore by Anna-Marie McLemore (Young Adult Magical Realism)

Two nonbinary teens discover a mysterious world hidden beneath the surface of a magical lake, where their fears and hopes take physical form. With lyrical prose and gentle fantasy, the novel explores ADHD, dyslexia, gender identity, and the comfort of finding someone who truly understands you. (Nonbinary Rep, ADHD Rep, Dyslexia Rep; Written by a Neurodivergent Author) View in the library catalog

Late Bloomer by Mazey Eddings (Adult Romantic Comedy)

After returning home burned out from a demanding career, a woman reconnects with her family's flower farm—and unexpectedly falls for another woman determined to help her bloom again. Eddings delivers a warm, funny romance that thoughtfully portrays both ADHD and autism while celebrating self-acceptance and queer joy. (Sapphic Rep, ADHD Rep, Autism Rep; Written by a Neurodivergent Author) View in the library catalog

Something Wild & Wonderful by Anita Kelly (Adult Contemporary Romance)

Two men meet while hiking the Pacific Crest Trail and slowly build a relationship as they travel hundreds of miles together. Equal parts romance and journey of self-discovery, the novel explores faith, family, and finding a place where you can fully be yourself. (Gay Rep, Autism Rep) View in the library catalog

Blindness & Low Vision

Sorrowland by Rivers Solomon (Adult Literary Horror / Speculative Fiction)

Escaping the strict religious compound where she was raised, Vern gives birth alone in the wilderness before discovering that both her body and the world around her are changing in terrifying ways. Blending horror, science fiction, and social commentary, this haunting novel explores identity, survival, and the lasting effects of oppression. (Queer Rep, Visual Impairment Rep; Written by a Nonbinary, Autistic Author) View in the library catalog

Chronic Illness & Chronic Pain

Iron Widow by Xiran Jay Zhao (Young Adult Science Fiction / Fantasy)

Inspired by the rise of China's only female emperor, Wu Zetian volunteers to become a pilot in the giant fighting machines used to battle alien invaders—but quickly discovers the system is built on exploitation. Combining explosive action with feminist rage, this bestselling novel features a protagonist living with chronic pain. (Bisexual Rep, Polyamorous Rep, Chronic Pain Rep) View in the library catalog

Deaf & Hard of Hearing

Interesting Facts About Space by Emily R. Austin (Adult Literary Fiction)

An introverted woman obsessed with space, science, and conspiracy theories struggles to balance new relationships, lingering trauma, and her growing fear that someone is watching her. Wry, heartfelt, and deeply compassionate, the novel explores anxiety, PTSD, hearing loss, and the complexities of everyday life. (Lesbian Rep, Hard of Hearing Rep, PTSD Rep) View in the library catalog.

Mooncakes by Suzanne Walker & Wendy Xu (Young Adult Graphic Novel • Fantasy)

Teen witch Nova works in her grandmothers' magical bookshop until an investigation into supernatural creatures reunites her with her childhood friend and first crush, Tam. Filled with cozy magic, found family, and gentle romance, this beautifully illustrated graphic novel celebrates Deaf and nonbinary representation. (Nonbinary Rep, Deaf Rep) View in the library catalog

Eating Disorders

Milk Fed by Melissa Broder (Adult Literary Fiction)

Rachel's carefully controlled life revolves around calorie counting, rigid routines, and her complicated relationship with her mother until she meets Miriam, an Orthodox Jewish woman who encourages her to embrace pleasure, nourishment, and desire. Equal parts funny and emotionally raw, the novel explores healing, body image, faith, and queer love. (Lesbian Rep, Eating Disorder Rep) View in the library catalog.

Learning Disabilities

Lakelore by Anna-Marie McLemore (Young Adult Magical Realism)

Two nonbinary teens discover a mysterious world hidden beneath the surface of a magical lake, where their fears and hopes take physical form. As they grow closer, they learn to embrace the parts of themselves they've long tried to hide. A lyrical story celebrating neurodiversity, gender identity, and first love. (Nonbinary Rep, ADHD Rep, Dyslexia Rep; Written by a Neurodivergent Author) View in the library catalog

Pucking Wild by Emily Rath (Adult Sports Romance)

A professional hockey player and a free-spirited newcomer find themselves drawn together despite complicated lives and unexpected challenges. Their relationship grows through honesty, humor, and mutual support, including thoughtful representation of learning disabilities. (Bisexual Rep, Learning Disability Rep) View in the library catalog

Limb Difference

Brighter Than Scale, Swifter Than Flame by Neon Yang (Adult Fantasy Novella)

A legendary dragonslayer nearing the end of her career is tasked with one final mission that forces her to question everything she believes about monsters, heroism, and herself. Rich with political intrigue and emotional depth, this fantasy novella explores disability, identity, and compassion. (Queer Rep, Limb Difference Rep; Written by a Disabled, Nonbinary Author) View in the library catalog

Godkiller by Hannah Kaner (Adult Epic Fantasy)

Kissen has made a living hunting gods despite losing part of her leg years earlier. When she reluctantly joins forces with an unlikely group of companions, she embarks on an epic journey filled with dangerous magic, political intrigue, and found family. (Queer Rep, Limb Difference Rep) View in the library catalog

The Spear Cuts Through Water by Simon Jimenez (Adult Epic Fantasy)

Two unlikely heroes escort an imprisoned goddess across a kingdom on the brink of collapse, weaving together myth, history, and breathtaking storytelling. This sweeping fantasy features queer romance alongside meaningful representation of limb difference within its richly imagined world. (Gay Rep, Limb Difference Rep) View in the library catalog

Mobility Disabilities & Cane Users

A Lady for a Duke by Alexis Hall (Adult Historical Romance)

Presumed dead after the Battle of Waterloo, Viola returns to society as her authentic self and rekindles a friendship with the duke who has long mourned her loss. This tender Regency romance combines a heartfelt trans love story with thoughtful portrayals of chronic pain, mobility disability, and recovery from trauma. (Trans Rep, Cane User Rep, Substance Use Recovery Rep) View in the library catalog

The Unbroken by C.L. Clark (Adult Epic Fantasy)

A soldier raised far from her homeland returns as part of the empire that conquered it, becoming entangled in rebellion, politics, and an unexpected romance with a princess. This ambitious fantasy explores colonialism, loyalty, and identity while featuring a prominent cane user. (Sapphic Rep, Cane User Rep) View in the library catalog

Multiple Sclerosis

So Lucky by Nicola Griffith (Adult Literary Fiction)

After receiving a diagnosis of multiple sclerosis, Mara refuses to let others define what her future should look like. Angry, determined, and fiercely intelligent, she pushes back against ableism while rebuilding her life on her own terms. Written by an author living with MS, this powerful novel is both deeply personal and unapologetically hopeful. (Lesbian Rep, Multiple Sclerosis Rep; Written by an Author with Multiple Sclerosis) View in the library catalog

OCD

Bellies by Nicola Dinan (Adult Literary Fiction)

When Tom's partner comes out as a trans woman, both must reconsider what love, identity, and adulthood mean for their future together. Tender and introspective, this debut explores relationships, transition, anxiety, and obsessive-compulsive disorder with warmth and honesty. (Trans Rep, Anxiety Rep, OCD Rep) View in the library catalog

Charm Offensive by Alison Cochrun (Adult Contemporary Romance)

A producer on a reality dating show is assigned to help the awkward star of the series become America's next romantic heartthrob. As the two spend more time together, genuine feelings develop in this heartfelt romance that thoughtfully portrays OCD, anxiety, and mental health while celebrating queer love. (Gay Rep, OCD Rep; Written by a Neurodivergent Author) View in the library catalog

Greta & Valdin by Rebecca K. Reilly (Adult Literary Fiction)

Two queer siblings navigate dating, family expectations, and adulthood within a wonderfully eccentric multigenerational family. Filled with humor and heart, the novel includes nuanced representation of obsessive-compulsive disorder while celebrating community and belonging. (Gay Rep, Queer Rep, OCD Rep) View in the library catalog

Heartstopper by Alice Oseman (Young Adult Graphic Novel)

Charlie and Nick's friendship blossoms into first love in this beloved graphic novel series celebrating queer joy, friendship, and growing up. As the series progresses, it also explores anxiety, OCD, depression, and eating disorders with care and compassion. (Gay Rep, OCD Rep, Anxiety Rep, Depression Rep) View in the library catalog

Highly Suspicious and Unfairly Cute by Talia Hibbert (Young Adult Contemporary Romance)

Former best friends Bradley and Celine reunite during an outdoor survival competition, where old rivalries slowly turn into something more. Funny, heartfelt, and full of chemistry, this coming-of-age romance includes thoughtful OCD representation alongside bisexual identity. (Bisexual Rep, OCD Rep)

View in the library catalog

PTSD

Interesting Facts About Space by Emily R. Austin (Adult Literary Fiction)

An anxious woman whose fascination with outer space helps her make sense of the world begins confronting long-buried trauma while navigating new relationships and everyday life. Balancing humor with emotional honesty, the novel explores PTSD, hearing loss, and anxiety through a distinctly queer perspective. (Lesbian Rep, Hard of Hearing Rep, PTSD Rep) View in the library catalog

Speech Disabilities

Waiting for the Flood by Alexis Hall (Adult Contemporary Romance Novella)

Following devastating floods, Edwin reluctantly accepts help from the practical and persistent Adam while rebuilding his home and his confidence. This quiet, character-driven romance features a protagonist with a speech impediment and celebrates vulnerability, healing, and second chances. (Gay Rep, Speech Disability Rep) View in the library catalog

Substance Use & Recovery

A Lady for a Duke by Alexis Hall (Adult Historical Romance)

After being presumed dead at Waterloo, Viola returns to society as her authentic self and rekindles a relationship with the duke who never stopped grieving her. Alongside a moving trans romance, the novel thoughtfully portrays chronic pain, addiction recovery, and healing from trauma. (Trans Rep, Cane User Rep, Substance Use Recovery Rep) View in the library catalog

Bath Haus by P.J. Vernon (Adult Psychological Thriller)

A seemingly harmless lie spirals into obsession, violence, and murder after Oliver's secret visit to a bathhouse places him in the path of a dangerous stranger. This fast-paced thriller explores addiction, self-destructive behavior, and toxic relationships within a gripping psychological suspense story. (Gay Rep, Substance Use Recovery Rep) View in the library catalog

Constellations by Kate Glasheen (Young Adult Graphic Memoir)

Through expressive artwork and deeply personal storytelling, Glasheen reflects on growing up queer while navigating addiction, recovery, and family relationships. This memoir offers an honest look at healing, identity, and resilience. (Queer Rep, Substance Use Recovery Rep; Written by a Disabled Author) View in the library catalog

Just by Looking at Him by Ryan O'Connell (Adult Literary Fiction)

A television writer with cerebral palsy begins questioning his marriage, friendships, and long-standing reliance on alcohol and drugs as he approaches fatherhood. Sharp, funny, and deeply honest, the novel explores disability, addiction, and self-acceptance. (Gay Rep, Cerebral Palsy Rep, Substance Use Recovery Rep; Written by an Author with Cerebral Palsy) View in the library catalog

Pomegranate by Helen Elaine Lee (Adult Literary Fiction)

Recently released from prison, Ranita struggles to rebuild her life, reconnect with her daughter, and maintain her sobriety. A moving story of second chances, community, and resilience, the novel offers a compassionate portrayal of recovery and queer identity. (Lesbian Rep, Substance Use Recovery Rep) View in the library catalog

Shot in the Dark by Victoria Lee (Adult Contemporary Romance)

Photography students Elisheva and Wyatt reconnect years after first meeting at addiction recovery meetings, forcing them to confront unresolved feelings and the realities of maintaining sobriety. Equal parts romance and recovery story, the novel centers healing, trust, and chosen family. (Bisexual Rep, Nonbinary Rep, Substance Use Recovery Rep; Written by a Disabled Author) View in the library catalog

Stars in Your Eyes by Kacen Callender (Adult Contemporary Romance)

After a very public feud, two Hollywood actors agree to a fake relationship to salvage their careers, only to discover genuine feelings beneath the headlines. Alongside a swoony romance, the novel explores addiction recovery, fame, and learning to trust both yourself and others. (Gay Rep, Substance Use Recovery Rep; Written by a Black, Trans Author) View in the library catalog

Thirsty by Jas Hammonds (Young Adult Contemporary)

Seventeen-year-old Blake's life begins to unravel after alcohol becomes an unhealthy coping mechanism for grief and family stress. This emotionally resonant novel examines addiction, recovery, and first love with compassion and authenticity. (Queer Rep, Substance Use Recovery Rep) View in the library catalog

Your Final Moment by Jay Coles (Young Adult Contemporary)

After learning he has only a short time left to live, a teenager sets out to repair fractured relationships while confronting grief, addiction, and the legacy he wants to leave behind. A poignant novel about forgiveness, love, and living authentically. (Gay Rep, Substance Use Recovery Rep) View in the library catalog

Wheelchair Users

Luminous by Silvia Park (Adult Science Fiction)

In a near-future Korea where advanced technology has reshaped daily life, two estranged sisters are reunited by the disappearance of a young boy with ties to both humans and robots. Blending family drama, mystery, and speculative fiction, the novel explores disability, identity, grief, and what it means to care for one another. One of the central characters is a wheelchair user living with a degenerative condition. (Queer Rep, Wheelchair User Rep, Degenerative Disease Rep) View in the library catalog

Nonfiction

Care Work: Dreaming Disability Justice by Leah Lakshmi Piepzna-Samarasinha (Essays • Disability Justice) A foundational collection of essays exploring disability justice, mutual aid, accessibility, and building communities where everyone can thrive. Blending personal experience with activism, Piepzna-Samarasinha challenges readers to imagine more inclusive futures rooted in care rather than independence. (Queer Author, Disabled Author) View in the library catalog

Crip Kinship: The Disability Justice & Art Activism of Sins Invalid by Shayda Kafai (Disability Studies / Art / Activism) Drawing on the groundbreaking work of the disability justice performance collective Sins Invalid, Kafai explores how art, activism, and community have transformed conversations around disability, race, gender, and sexuality. A thoughtful introduction to disability justice through the lens of creative expression. (Disability Justice, Queer Perspectives) (Arriving soon to the library.)

Future Is Disabled: Prophecies, Love Notes and Mourning Songs by Leah Lakshmi Piepzna-Samarasinha (Essays • Disability Justice) Through essays, reflections, and community storytelling, Piepzna-Samarasinha envisions disabled futures centered on joy, interdependence, and collective liberation. Both deeply personal and politically powerful, this collection celebrates disabled lives while imagining more accessible worlds. (Queer Author, Disabled Author) View in the library catalog

Pretty One: On Life, Pop Culture, Disability, and Other Reasons to Fall in Love with Me by Keah Brown (Memoir / Essays) Writer and activist Keah Brown reflects on growing up with cerebral palsy, navigating relationships, representation, and self-worth, all with warmth, wit, and honesty. Her essays celebrate disabled joy while challenging assumptions about beauty, independence, and belonging. (Disabled Author) View in the library catalog

Quietly Hostile by Samantha Irby (Memoir / Humorous Essays)

Irby's signature humor shines through essays on chronic illness, aging, relationships, and the awkward realities of everyday life. Beneath the laughs is a candid exploration of living with Crohn's disease, depression, and chronic pain while embracing queer identity. (Queer Author, Disabled Author) View in the library catalog

Wow, No Thank You. by Samantha Irby (Memoir / Humorous Essays)

From home ownership and health care to marriage and middle age, Irby brings her trademark blend of irreverence and vulnerability to another unforgettable essay collection. Her reflections on chronic illness, disability, and everyday absurdities are both hilarious and deeply relatable. (Queer Author, Disabled Author) View in the library catalog